7 UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
8 WESTERN DISTRICT OF WASHINGTON
9 AT SEATTLE

10 UNITED STATES OF AMERICA,

11 Plaintiff,

v.

12 RICHARD BLICK,

13 Defendant.

CASE NO. CR17-0216-JCC

15 This matter comes before the Court on Defendant Richard Blick's motion for a reduction 16 in sentence (Dkt. No. 126), the Government's motion for leave to file an overlength brief (Dkt.
17 No. 130), and the parties' motions to seal (Dkt. Nos. 127, 132). Having thoroughly considered 18 the parties' briefing and the relevant record, the Court finds oral argument unnecessary and 19 hereby DENIES Mr. Blick's motion for a reduction in sentence (Dkt. No. 126) and GRANTS the 20 Government's motion for leave to file an overlength brief (Dkt. No. 130) and the parties' 21 motions to seal (Dkt. Nos. 127, 132) for the reasons explained herein.

22 I. BACKGROUND

23 A jury convicted Mr. Blick in March 2018 of receipt and possession of child 24 pornography. (Dkt. Nos. 67, 91.) Mr. Blick was convicted of these offenses after law 25 enforcement discovered a large quantity of child pornography in his Dropbox account and on his 26 laptops, cell phones, and tablets. (Dkt. No. 84 at 2–3.) Law enforcement also discovered that

1 Mr. Blick had developed an inappropriate relationship with a minor child victim over the internet 2 and that he had manipulated the victim into sending him pornographic images and videos of 3 herself. (Id.) Following Mr. Blick's conviction, the Court sentenced him to 240 months in 4 prison, followed by lifetime supervised release. (Dkt. Nos. 91, 104 at 14.) Mr. Blick's age, the 5 aggravated and expansive nature of his criminal history, and the failure of past sex offender
 6 treatment were important considerations in the Court's determination of an appropriate sentence.
 7 (Dkt. No. 104 at 14.)

8 Mr. Blick now moves for a reduction in his sentence under 18 U.S.C. § 3582(c)(1). (Dkt.
 9 No. 126.) Mr. Blick requests that the Court reduce his sentence and release him because he has 10 underlying health conditions that make him more likely to develop severe illness from COVID-11 19 and because he is at a higher risk of contracting COVID-19 while incarcerated. (Dkt. No. 126 12 at 4–5.) The Government opposes Mr. Blick's motion. (Dkt. No. 131.)

13 II. DISCUSSION

14 A. Motion for Reduction in Sentence

15 The Court may reduce a term of imprisonment if “extraordinary and compelling reasons 16 warrant such a reduction,” “such a reduction is consistent with applicable policy statements 17 issued by the Sentencing Commission,” and the Court considers the 18 U.S.C. § 3553(a) factors.
 18 18 U.S.C. § 3582(c)(1)(A)(i).¹ The defendant bears the burden of making this showing. United 19 States v. Holden, 452 F. Supp. 3d 964, 969 (D. Or. 2020). Although the Ninth Circuit has not 20 directly addressed the issue, at least five Courts of Appeals have held that the Sentencing
 21 Commission's relevant policy statement, United States Sentencing Guidelines (“USSG”)
 22 § 1B1.13, is not “applicable” to a motion for a reduction in sentence filed by a defendant directly

 24 ¹ As a threshold matter, a defendant must also satisfy 18 U.S.C. § 3582(c)(1)(A)'s exhaustion 25 requirement by first presenting a request for a reduced sentence to the warden of his or her 26 facility and waiting 30 days (or exhausting administrative remedies before the 30-day waiting period expires) before seeking relief from the court. See United States v. Taylor, 2020 WL 7383648 (6th Cir. 2020). Mr. Blick has satisfied this requirement. (See Dkt. Nos. 35 at 3, 35-1.)

1 (rather than by the Bureau of Prisons) and therefore does not constrain the Court's discretion. See
2 United States v. Brooker, 976 F.3d 228, 236 (2d Cir. 2020); United States v. Gunn, 980 F.3d 3 1178, 1180 (7th Cir. 2020); United States v. Jones, 980 F.3d 1098, 1101 (6th Cir. 2020); United 4 States v. McCoy, 981 F.3d 271, 281 (4th Cir. 2020); United States v. Maumau, 2021 WL
5 1217855, slip op. at 12 (10th Cir. 2021). But even if the policy statement is not binding, the 6 Court may consider it in the exercise of its discretion. See Gunn, 980 F.3d at 1180. The policy 7 statement recommends that courts not reduce sentences of individuals who would present a 8 danger to the community upon release, USSG § 1B1.13(2), and the Court finds that to be an 9 appropriate consideration. See United States v. Arceneaux, 830 F. App'x 859 (9th Cir. 2020) 10 (affirming denial of a motion for reduction in sentence because the defendant was a danger to the 11 community).

12 Health conditions that increase an individual's risk of a severe case of COVID-19 may 13 constitute extraordinary and compelling circumstances. See United States v. Cosgrove, 454 F.
14 Supp. 3d 1063, 1067 (W.D. Wash. 2020); United States v. Dorsey, 461 F. Supp. 3d 1062, 1065 15 (W.D. Wash. 2020). Mr. Blick is obese and over the age of sixty-five, which increases his risk of 16 developing a severe case of COVID-19. However, some factors undercut Mr. Blick's claim that 17 his health conditions constitute extraordinary and compelling circumstances. First, Mr. Blick was 18 already infected with COVID-19 in December 2020 and his reaction to the disease was relatively 19 mild. (Dkt. No. 126 at 4.) Additionally, the CDC has indicated that while reinfection is possible, 20 it is unlikely. Second, Mr. Blick was offered the Moderna COVID-19 vaccine and refused to 21 receive it. (Dkt. No. 133 at 18.) This decision undermines Mr. Blick's claim because the vaccine 22 would have dramatically reduced the likelihood Mr. Blick would develop severe COVID-19 and 23 by refusing to receive it, he made a voluntary choice to remain at a higher risk. However, in this 24 case, the Court does not need to decide whether Mr. Blick's situation or health conditions qualify 25 as an extraordinary and compelling circumstance because Mr. Blick has failed to demonstrate 26 that his release would not present a danger to the community or that a reduction in his sentence

1 would be consistent with the 18 U.S.C. § 3553(a) factors.

2 In assessing whether Mr. Blick would present a danger to the community upon release, 3 the Court looks to the nature and circumstances of his underlying offense, the weight of the 4 evidence against him, his history and characteristics, and the danger that his release would pose
5 to any person or the community. 18 U.S.C. § 3142(g); U.S.S.G. § 1B1.13(2). The nature and 6 circumstances of Mr. Blick's offense were very serious, especially since they involved the 7 exploitation and abuse of children. The weight of the evidence against Mr. Blick was substantial 8 as law enforcement recovered numerous images of child pornography from Mr. Blick's Dropbox
9 account, video messages between Mr. Blick and a minor child victim, and approximately 2,000
10 files of child pornography in Mr. Blick's motor home. (Dkt. No. 84 at 2–3.) Additionally, Mr.
11 Blick's extensive criminal history makes his danger to the community clear. From 1976 to 1999, 12 Mr. Blick was convicted of Harassment three times, Public Lewdness twice, and Endangering 13 the Welfare of a Child. (Dkt. No. 75 at 6–8.) Starting in 1999, Mr. Blick engaged in 14 conversations of a sexual nature with a twelve-year-old girl he met online, manipulated the 15 victim into sending him sexually explicit photographs, and eventually instigated sexual contact
16 with her. (Id. at 8.) As a result, he pled guilty in 2001 to Rape of a Child in the Second Degree 17 and was sentenced to eleven years in prison. (Dkt. No. 67 at 2.) Only a few years after being 18 released from prison, Mr. Blick committed the offenses for which he is currently incarcerated.
19 He was found to be in possession of thousands of files of child pornography and it was 20 discovered that Mr. Blick had manipulated a child victim into sending him pornographic videos 21 and images. (Dkt. No. 75 at 4.) Mr. Blick has an established pattern of committing serious sexual 22 offenses against minors despite lengthy periods of incarcerations and multiple instances of court-
23 ordered sex offender treatment. (Id. at 8, 9, 12.) Additionally, Mr. Blick's history of poor 24 performance on supervised release indicates that no conditions of release are able to assure the 25 safety of the community. For example, after his release in 2011, Mr. Blick failed to comply with 26 the conditions of his sentence by continuing to use the internet, possessing pornography, and

1 failing to follow a directive. (Id. at 9.) Due to the severity and repeated nature of Mr. Blick’s
 2 offenses, the Court FINDS Mr. Blick would present a danger to the community upon release.

3 The section 3553(a) factors also weigh against release. These factors include the nature 4 and circumstances of the underlying offense, the need for the sentence imposed, the kinds of 5 sentences available, the applicable sentencing range, pertinent policy statements, and the need to 6 avoid sentencing disparities. See 18 U.S.C. § 3553(a). When determining Mr. Blick’s sentence, 7 the Court considered multiple factors, including the severity of the offenses, the failure of his sex 8 offender treatment, his lengthy criminal record, and his advanced age. (Dkt. No. 104 at 14.) The 9 Court elected to sentence Mr. Blick below the guidelines range based on a thoughtful evaluation
 10 of those considerations. Allowing Mr. Blick to serve less than three years of a twenty year 11 sentence would not reflect the seriousness of the offenses, promote respect for the law, provide 12 adequate punishment, or afford adequate deterrence. (Id.)

13 B. Motions to Seal and Motions to File Overlength Briefs

14 Mr. Blick and the Government both move to seal Mr. Blick’s medical records. (Dkt. No.
 15 127, 132.) “There is a strong presumption of public access to the court’s files.” W.D. Wash.
 16 Local Civ. R. 5(g). To overcome that presumption, a party must show “good cause” for sealing a 17 document attached to a non-dispositive motion and “compelling reasons” to seal a document
 18 attached to a dispositive motion. See Kamakana v. City and Cnty. of Honolulu, 447 F.3d 1172, 19 1178-81 (9th Cir. 2006). The Court need not decide whether Mr. Blick’s motion for a reduction
 20 in sentence is a dispositive motion because the Court FINDS that Mr. Blick has a compelling 21 interest in maintaining his medical records under seal and that interest outweighs the public’s
 22 interest in their disclosure. Accordingly, the Court GRANTS the motions to seal. See Karpenski
 23 v. Am. Gen. Life Cos., LLC, 2013 WL 5588312, slip. op. at 1 (W.D. Wash. 2013).

24 Additionally, the Government seeks to file an overlength brief. (Dkt. No. 130.) The 25 Government’s response is 14 pages. (Dkt. No. 131.) The Court FINDS that a response brief of 26 that length is reasonable in light of these circumstances and GRANTS the motion.

1 III. CONCLUSION

2 For the foregoing reasons, the Court DENIES Mr. Blick's motion for a reduction in 3 sentence (Dkt. No. 126), GRANTS the Government's motion for leave to file an overlength brief
4 (Dkt. No. 130), and GRANTS the parties' motions to seal (Dkt. Nos. 127, 132). The Court
5 DIRECTS the Clerk to maintain Docket Numbers 128 and 133 under seal.
